

CSA T.H.K. Frederking Space Cryogenics Workshop Student Scholarship

The Cryogenic Society of America has established this scholarship to help deserving students needing financial assistance to attend the Space Cryogenics Workshop (SCW). Historically two $500 stipends have been awarded to cover the cost of student registration and to defray some of the expenses of attending the workshop. The scholarship honors Professor Traugott Frederking, the first Fellow of the CSA, a professor at UCLA, who regularly provided financial aid out of his own funds to support his students in attending the SCW and other conferences.

Any student registrant attending the SCW may request financial support; high priority will be given to students with limited means.

Please complete all fields of the application form and submit to CSA by email: megan@cryogenicsociety.org together with your current resume and your letter of recommendation no later than March 14, 2025. This date is firm. The signature of both the applicant and supervisor/other academic contact are required.

All applications will be acknowledged by CSA. If you do not receive an acknowledgment within three business days, please send a follow up email to ensure the application was received. All applicants will be notified of award decisions by email.
